

The pictures here show everyday scenes on the roads from the Nuffield factories to the docks as cars stream down to the ports on the first stage of their mission of helping adjust Britain's adverse trade balance.

★ "The value of our exports for the last six months has shown an INCREASE OF 570% over the similar period of 1938" Sir Miles Thomas, D.F.C., Vice-Chairman of the Nuffield Organisation — May 1947.

From the production lines in the factories of the Nuffield Organisation cars and trucks flow in an unbroken stream to every corner of the world . . . and have been flowing ever since the inception of the export drive. Every day's output helps Britain in the fight to close the import-export gap . . . every car and truck helps to augment the prestige of British motor engineering abroad. Nuffield Exports Ltd. are proud of the part they play as one of the leading suppliers of Britain's overseas car markets.
